Successful Franchisees Often Come From the Following Backgrounds

- Previous business management experience and ownership.
- A proven high-performing sales career.
- A background within the building industry as a designer, project manager, builder, Trade, or new home consultant.
- Senior managers looking to leave the corporate world and develop their future.
- Successful commission-based sales history.

No Cap on Earning Potential!

Our franchisees receive a healthy profit on their company's turnover. With more homeowners wanting to build and renovate than ever before, there is plenty of building and construction work. The industry average for turnover is well into the millions. Even in their first year, hardworking franchisees easily reach six-figure salaries.

As with owning and running any business, the hours are varied, including evenings and weekends. Top franchisees achieve flexibility in their workday once they build a solid foundation. Routine jobs include:

- Receiving calls from new customers and understanding their needs.
- Optimizing solutions for those customers from the broad range of building and construction services we offer.
- Discussing proposed solutions with customers to close the sale and secure the work.
- Coordinating the contractors required for the jobs.
- Ensuring the finished work meets high-quality standards.

Would You Be the Right Fit?

While we provide comprehensive training in the building and renovation industry, there are some qualities you will need to be successful:

- A determination to grow and build a profitable company.
- An ability to build rapport with customers and communicate concepts in an easy-to-understand way.
- A passion for understanding needs and finding solutions for your customers.
- Experience managing a sales pipeline including analytics, reporting, sales planning, forecasting, and organizational skills.
- The ability to coordinate multiple stakeholders at once managing the coordination of contractors to complete projects.
- A robust understanding of the sales process, buyer personas, and a proven track record of hitting sales numbers.
- A customer service mindset. We want customers to be so happy with their experience that they return repeatedly.
