Civil Business - Owner Retiring

Net Profit $400,000 p.a.

Are you looking to acquire a business in the civil industry?

This is a unique opportunity to invest and own a well-established and profitable business.

The business has stood the test of time over the two decades and has seen it all and been through all the lows and highs over the last few years and still trades well today.

This is a testament to the current owner's stewardship which has resulted in an outstanding reputation for delivering on the client's needs.

The business generates repeat work across a diverse range of clients from smaller companies to large corporates including council and government.

- Substantial Plant & Equipment
- Highly refined systems & processes
- Skilled staff
- Impressive client list
- Identified growth opportunities
- Option to add additional services to existing clients
- Retiring owner available to support transition

This business provides multiple ownership options and could suit someone either with a civil engineering background or as an acquisition for a civil or construction business looking to add to and provide a wider service offering or bring this into their own business.

If you are serious about securing a gold-plated opportunity you need to look at this business.
